

Quick to respond to any questions, changes or queries... and always able to produce a solution

Established in 1988, Warners Group Publications are a magazine publication specialising in niche titles. Offering a fast, high quality professional digital print and finishing service.

Warners Group Publications needed a more economical mail solution that provided flexibility with ever-changing last-minute schedule changes. They required a provider who could cope with the varying quantities of mailing data and was able to offer various mailing solutions.

“Posthub were able to accommodate a flexible service, they could collect mail when required and process the mailing data in a quick turnaround time.” says Anne Louds, from Warners Group Publications.

“As a company we have been able to save on mailing costs, be able to meet publisher demands to varying mailing types, such as carrier mailings at short notices and generally provide an efficient service to all.”

We have found the customer service excellent from Posthub, our Account Manager and the whole team offer a fantastic service. They are quick to respond to any questions, changes or queries we may have and are always able to produce a solution.

They care about the work that goes out and share the same dedication as we do to providing a quality service.

Our Account Manager is always on hand to provide any analysis that we made need to enable us to make the right choices for our needs as a company.
